Mindgate Performance Management System For everyone who has been given a login. Version of 29 September 2026.

1. Signing in

1. Open the address your HR team circulated with your login.
2. Enter your work email and the password HR gave you.
3. Press Sign in.

The first time you sign in, the system will stop and ask you to choose your own password. This is not optional and there is no way past it — the screen says "Choose your own password" and nothing else will open until you have. Your new password must be at least 8 characters. Pick something only you know: the password HR issued was visible to whoever sent it to you.

To change it again later, click Password in the top-right corner of any screen.

If you cannot sign in, check the email address first — the account is keyed on the exact address in the employee master. If that is right and the password still fails, ask HR to reset it. There is no self-service "forgot password" link.

2. Finding your way around

Along the top you will see a row of coloured tabs. Most employees see only one: `Self`. If you manage people you will also see `Manager`; department heads see `HOD`; HR sees `HR`. You only ever see the tabs your account is entitled to — a tab you cannot use does not appear at all.

Under the tab is the menu for that tab. Everything in this manual lives under Self.

Menu item	What it is
Home	Your landing page: what you owe, and what is waiting on someone else.
My KRAs	Your goals for the year, and where you write them.
My Growth	Your target achievements for the year, and the role you are aiming at.
Connects	Your quarterly conversations with your manager.
Mid-Year Review	Your own mid-year checkpoint against each KRA.
Annual Review	Your self-appraisal at the end of the year.
Final Rating	The consolidated rating once the cycle closes.
My Rating	Your rating history. Greyed out until HR publishes it.
Past Cycles	Previous years.
My Competencies	Rate yourself against what your role needs.
Timesheet	See how your timesheet compliance reads. HR uploads the timesheets.
Improvement Plan	Your improvement plan, if one is open.
My Surveys	Engagement surveys HR has sent you.
People Hub	The company noticeboard and directory.

A menu item that is greyed out and unclickable is not a permissions problem — it means there is nothing behind it yet. Hover over it and it tells you what will open it. My Rating, for example, stays closed until HR publishes your appraisal.

3. My KRAs — writing your goals

This is the first thing to do in a new cycle.

Start from your role's shelf. If HR has published a KRA Library for your designation, click Suggest KRAs for my role. You get a menu of KRAs written for your job title — pick the ones that apply. Everything you pick stays fully editable: change the wording, the metric, the weight, whatever you need. The shelf is a starting point, not a template you are locked into.

Or write your own. Use Add a KRA under… in whichever section fits (Financial, Project / Process, Customer, People).

Weights must total 100. The shelf itself does not need to total 100 — it is a menu, and you pick a hundred points' worth from it.

Each KRA takes:

- a title — what you are accountable for;
- a description (click + Add description);
- KPIs — how it will be measured, and from what source;
- a weight — how much of your year it represents.

Save draft keeps your work private. Save & submit to manager sends it for approval — after that your manager either approves it or returns it with a comment asking for changes. If it comes back, the comment tells you what to fix.

4. Timesheet

Two things live here: your compliance (did you fill your timesheet), and your KRA coverage (did the work you logged line up with your goals).

Who uploads it

HR uploads timesheets (since 22 October): there is no upload on your page. Log your hours in Zoho Sprints as usual; once HR loads the export, your report appears here. If a correction is needed, make it in Zoho and ask HR to upload again — a re-upload replaces only the days in the new file, so nothing else of yours changes.

The Compliance tab

A calendar of the period showing which days are filled, which are short, and which are weekends. Your compliance percentage is at the top, with a Red / Amber / Green marker.

The KRA coverage tab

This is where your logged hours are matched to your KRAs. A log whose Log Title (filled by HR in the upload) is one of your KRA titles counts towards that KRA — shown as By Log Title; the rest are placed by your manager. Four numbers across the top:

Number	What it means
Hours placed	How much of your logged time is attached to a KRA.
KRA coverage	How much of your sheet, by weight, not by count, got worked on.
Effort alignment	How closely where your hours went matched the weights you agreed.
Timesheet compliance	Whether you filled your timesheet, for the same period.

Below that, Where the hours went lists every KRA with the hours against it, and What was logged lists every project item with the KRA it serves.

Read this section carefully, because it is easy to misread:

- This screen is read-only for you. Your manager decides which KRA each item serves. You see exactly the numbers they do — nothing is hidden from you and nothing is yours to change.
- It does not produce a rating. If no rating can be computed, the screen says so in a box at the top and gives the reason in plain words — for example, "Only 72.2% of the hours considered are mapped to a KRA, below the 80% this tenant requires before a score means anything."
- An item can be marked "Ambiguous". That means the words in it matched more than one of your KRAs, so the system gave the hours to neither and named both candidates. It is not an error and it is not a judgement. Ask your manager to place it.
- A KRA can be marked "not measured from timesheets", with the reason beside it. Some goals — a customer-satisfaction score, for instance — are measured elsewhere, and the system says so rather than penalising you for logging no hours against them.
- "No logged work against this" on a KRA is a prompt, not an accusation. It may be entirely correct for the month.

At the bottom, Closed months shows the months HR has settled. A settled month keeps the numbers it was closed with, even if a KRA is reweighted afterwards.

What to do if the numbers look wrong: don't argue with the screen — it is reporting what was logged and what was mapped. If hours are missing, fix them in Zoho and ask HR to upload the export again. If hours are in the wrong place, your manager holds the mapping.

5. The rest of the year

My Growth — your target achievements for the year, and the role you are aiming at next. You can ask the system to draft suggestions from your KRAs; anything it writes is clearly labelled as a draft and is yours to edit, replace or delete before it counts as yours.

Connects — the record of your quarterly conversations. Both you and your manager can see and add to these.

Mid-Year Review — a checkpoint against each KRA at the halfway mark. You rate and comment; your manager does the same; the overall is computed from the per-KRA ratings, not typed in by hand.

Annual Review — your self-appraisal. Write your case against each KRA. The system can draft bullets from what it knows; edit them until they are true, because your name goes on them.

Final Rating / My Rating — the consolidated outcome. These stay closed until HR publishes.

My Competencies — rate yourself against what your role requires. Each competency comes with an example of what "good" looks like at your level. Your manager rates you separately, and the two views are compared.

My Surveys — engagement surveys HR has sent you. Anonymous surveys never store your name against your answers. That is structural in how the data is held, not a promise in a policy document.

6. Common questions

"Access denied" on a page. You do not hold the permission for it. The message names what is needed; send that to HR rather than guessing.

My Rating is greyed out. HR has not published your appraisal yet. Hovering over the menu item says so.

My manager changed. Open records move with you. You do not need to redo anything.

Something looks empty. Empty means empty — this system does not show sample or placeholder data. If a screen says nothing has been set up, nothing has been set up.

Who do I ask? Your manager for anything about your KRAs, your ratings or your timesheet mapping. HR for access, passwords, cycles and published ratings.
